EPC 2024 Programme

Introduction

Kenya's first engineering regulatory body was established in 1969 under Engineers Registration Act, Cap 530 and was known as the Engineers Registration Board. The mandate of the Board under this legal framework was to regulate the activities and conduct of registered engineers in accordance with the functions and powers conferred upon it by the Act.

In order to effectively regulate the engineering sector, there was need to amend the Act to provide for wholesome regulation of the engineering value chain.

The Engineers Registration Act was repealed in 2011 with the enactment of the Engineers Act 2011. The mandate of the Board now became the registration of engineers and firms, regulation of engineering professional services, setting of standards, development and general practice of engineering.

It has therefore been 60 years of thoughtful, pioneering, insightful, exciting, dynamic and progressive delivery of engineering infrastructure, processes and systems.

There is therefore need to take stock and reflect and celebrate the achievements, respond to the emerging trends and challenges and reset to address current national and global challenges, and look forward to the next 60 years of engineering being at the heart of innovation, infrastructure development and technological advancements.

About Our Partners

Dedan Kimathi University of Technology (DeKUT)

Dedan Kimathi University of Technology is a public University situated in Nyeri, along the Nyeri-Nyahururu road.

DeKUT has a rich history and is named after Kenya's liberation hero, Field Marshal Dedan Kimathi Wachiuri. The Institution was founded as a community initiative espousing the spirit of self-reliance and determination engrained in the national efforts for Kenya's independence, which was epitomized by this Mau Mau liberation hero.

It is in that spirit the University identified technology as a crucial driver of societal transformation. The University offers a range of high-quality programs at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels in the following disciplines: Engineering, Sciences, Information and Communication Technology, Business, Management and Economics, Food Science, Health Sciences, Sustainable Tourism and Hospitality, Geospatial, Geothermal, Technical and professional studies. 90% of her programmes are in STEM with more than 70% of the student's enrolment being in STEM, which demonstrates the University's commitment to being a premier technological University in the national, regional, and global arena. DeKUT is spearheading the development of a Science and Technology Park (STP), which is aligned to three thematic areas, Design, Manufacturing, and Materials; ICT; and Agritech. The park will be a hub for innovation, start-up, and incubation development and commercialization of technology. This will in turn stimulate the development of entrepreneurship, which will drive job creation in the country and develop self-reliant Kenyans, especially the youth.

The Institution of Engineers of Kenya (IEK)

The Institution of Engineers of Kenya (IEK) is the learned society of the engineering profession and co-operates with national and other international institutions in developing and applying engineering to the benefit of humanity.

The East African Association of Engineers (EAAE), which was the precursor to the Institution of Engineers of the Kenya (IEK), was formed in 1945 as a professional and learned body, independent of control by governments and with membership spread in the original East Africa i.e. Kenya, Uganda, and Tanzania (Tanganyika and Zanzibar). The break up of the East African Community in the early 1970's resulted in the splitting of most of the professional/learned bodies, among them the EAAE. IEK was born out of this split. IEK was registered as a professional/learned and independent body in 1972.

The ideals and objectives of IEK since its formation have been:

- To represent the diverse interests of all branches of engineering.
- To promote, encourage and improve the application of engineering to technical and other related practices.
- To facilitate the exchange of information and ideas on technical and other related matters.
- To safe-guard the dignity and integrity of the engineering profession and safeguard the standards set to guide the application of engineering knowledge to the solution of problems.
- To contribute to and set standards for theoretical, practical and management training leading to acceptance to Membership of IEK and registration by the Engineers Board of Kenya (EBK)
- Commitment to Continuous Professional Development for members of IEK.

Association of Consulting Engineers of Kenya (ACEK)

The Association of Consulting Engineers of Kenya is a membership organization which was founded in 1968.

Its main objective is to promote the advancement of professionalism within the consulting engineering sector and cooperation among consulting engineers. The scope encompasses all engineering practice activities including providing a forum for Government, Public Institutions, Industry and Trade representatives among others to interface with consulting engineers as a group and ascertain their collective views.

The Association is a member of FIDIC Africa, the Group of African Member Associations of FIDIC, KEPSA, Kenya Private Sector Alliance and APSEA, the Association of Professional Societies in East Africa.

Our objectives include:

- Represent nationally the majority of firms providing 'technology based intellectual services for the built environment'.
- Assist members with issues relating to business practice.
- Define and actively promote conformance to a code of ethics.
- Enhance the image of consulting engineers as leaders and wealth creators in society
- Promote our commitment to environmental sustainability.
- Associate Consulting Engineers for the purpose of co-operation and mutual advantage and consultation.
